HEADING FOR THE METS DAY-NIGHT DOUBLEHEADER? MTA NYC Transit Will Get You There and Back

MTA NYC Transit will provide additional subway service for Mets fans attending the Saturday, July 28th separate admission, day-night doubleheader against the Washington Nationals at Shea Stadium.

The day game will begin at 12:10 p.m. and all fans must exit the stadium in advance of the night game which begins at 7:10 p.m. 7 trains run every four minutes prior to both games. In addition, 7 trains will run continuously (all local) after each game every three to four minutes until the crowd has cleared.

Fans should purchase their MetroCards in advance, either at a station booth or from a MetroCard Vending Machine (MVM) which accepts both cash and credit/debit cards. Fans can also purchase MetroCards at Shea Stadium by stopping at the Ticket Office.
