Henry Hudson Bridge Parkway Lane Closure Continues through Mid-January 2008

Motorists are advised that closure of the western-most parkway lane leading to the upper level northbound toll plaza of the Henry Hudson Bridge will continue through mid-January 2008. The lane has been closed since October 9 in order to repair the stone parapet wall.

In addition to the wall repair, which involves rebuilding, re-setting, cleaning and pointing the stone along the entire 400 feet of the wall, there will be installation of a bridge rail in front of the wall, and relocation of a light pole and foundation.

Traffic impact will continue to be minimal, as expected.
