Martin Luther King, Jr. Day is a Special Day for Metro-North Trains as Well

On Monday, January 18, MTA Metro-North Railroad will be operating on a special half-holiday schedule. This schedule is shown in the October 18th timetable now in effect.

In addition, Grand Central North—the passageways that lead north from the train platforms—will be closed.

Although the financial markets are closed, many offices remain open. Metro-North expects to carry about 60 percent of its normal Monday ridership.

Most connecting services will operate, except Dutchess County CTC. Numerous services will operate on a reduced schedule. Here are the details:

Hudson Rail Link: will operate on a reduced schedule:

Tappan Zee Express: Normal schedule. Evening buses will wait for express trains.

Haverstraw – Ossining Ferry: will operate on a reduced schedule with bus substitution due to continued icing on the Hudson River.

Newburgh – Beacon Ferry: will operate on a reduced schedule with bus substitution due to ice.

Newburgh Beacon Stewart Link: Normal schedule. Evening buses will wait for expresses.

HART Services: Danbury – Brewster, Katonah – Ridgefield, and New Fairfield – Southeast buses will operate on a reduced schedule.

Ulster – Poughkeepsie Link: will operate on a weekend schedule.

Dutchess CTC: Will not operate.
