Schedules Change on the Port Jervis and Pascack Valley Lines This Sunday January 17, 2010

On Sunday, January 17, 2010 the West of Hudson train schedules for MTA Metro-North Railroad's Port Jervis and Pascack Valley Lines are going to be adjusted so that there is just enough time, space and place for all the trains to operate more reliably.

These changes are minor adjustments in connections between Secaucus Junction and Penn Station-NY due to a location shift in Amtrak's ongoing concrete tie replacement program.

The resulting schedule changes on the Northeast Corridor Line and North Jersey Coast Line mean that some Port Jervis and Pascack Valley connections to/from Penn Station will change by up to 2" on weekdays and up to 5" on weekends.

The one exception is the last train from Spring Valley on Friday nights only, when customers traveling to Penn Station will have to wait an additional 18 minutes at Secaucus Junction for their connection to Penn Station.

Not every train has its schedule adjusted but no matter which line you take, be sure to pick up a new timetable at Hoboken, Penn Station-NY or Secaucus Junction. Timetables also are available on the Metro-North pages of the website at www.mta.info or at www.njtransit.com
