MTA Metro-North Railroad Plans Installation of Concrete Ties on New Haven Line

On Monday, March 15th, MTA Metro-North Railroad will begin replacing concrete ties on track 3, the "inbound local" track, between the Old Greenwich Station and the Connecticut-New York state line.

Customers will have to use the opposite, or "outbound local" platform (Track 4) to board trains weekdays during the AM peak, between Old Greenwich and Rye for the duration of this project.

At Rye, Port Chester and Greenwich, normal side service will resume on April 26.

At Cos Cob, Riverside and Old Greenwich, normal side service will resume May 10.

The trains affected will be Monday through Friday starting at the beginning of the day (4:45 a.m.) and lasting through 10:30 a.m. Trains will operate on normal sides at other times and all day on weekends.

While this work is going on, AM reverse peak outbound trains will use two-car-lengths of standard bridge plates at all the affected stations as will inbound trains at these stations at all times other than AM peak.

There also will be track changes at Stamford during the AM peak.

Signs will be posted at stations and on-board announcements will be made.
