LIRR Expects to Provide Normal Rush Hour Service Tuesday, October 26 as NJ Transit Derailment is cleared

MTA Long Island Rail Road customers should expect normal rush hour service Tuesday, October 26 as the NJ Transit train that derailed in Penn Station on Monday, October 25 has been re-railed and the track repaired.

The LIRR appreciates its customers' understanding and patience for the canceled trains and delays endured during Monday evening's rush hour as the LIRR was limited to using 6 of its 9 regular tracks as the derailed NJ Transit train blocked access to more than half the station tracks at the terminal.
