IMMEDIATE

Beginning July 24th Two of Three Lanes On Henry Hudson Bridge To Manhattan And One Henry Hudson Parkway Lane Closed Sun.-Fri. Between 7 PM and 5 AM

Beginning Sunday, July 24th and continuing into September, two of three lanes on the Henry Hudson Bridge heading into Manhattan and one of two lanes on the Henry Hudson Parkway from the Kappock Street entrance to the bridge will be closed nightly Sunday through Friday between 7 p.m. and 5 a.m. for necessary construction.

One bridge lane and one parkway lane into Manhattan will remain open at all times. Motorists are advised that they may experience delays during these times.

This necessary work is part of a three-year, nearly $33 million Capital construction project that began in May to replace the steel curb stringers that support the Bronx-bound, upper level roadway on either side of the bridge.

The curb stringers, which are part of the original 1930s structure, have reached the end of their useful life and must be replaced.

The lower level of the Henry Hudson Bridge, which turns 75 this year, opened to traffic Dec. 12, 1936. The upper level was added two years later.
