E and M Trains Run on the F Late Nights Through March 11

MTA New York City Transit announced that from 10 p.m. to 5 a.m. beginning today, Monday, February 28 through Friday, March 4 and again from March 7 to 11, E trains run on the F line between 36th Street in Queens and West 4th Street in Manhattan. M trains run on the F line between 36th Street in Queens and 47th-50th Streets in Manhattan. Customers may transfer to or from the 6, A, D, or C trains or use free shuttle bus as alternatives.

This means that during the overnight hours, free shuttle buses connect Court Square/23rd Street-Ely Avenue, Queens Plaza and 21st Street-Queensbridge stations. The platforms at 23rd Street-Ely Avenue, Lexington Avenue-53rd Street and 5th Avenue-53rd Street stations are closed. This is due to work on the 5th Avenue Interlocking Signal System Modernization project. (Note: Between the hours of midnight and 6:30 a.m. on weekdays, M trains operate between Metropolitan Avenue and Myrtle Avenue only.)

Due to several on-going construction projects, train service between Queens and Manhattan will be impacted on nights and weekends through 2012. We will do our best to schedule these projects simultaneously so that we can minimize the number of service diversions affecting our customers.

Customers should watch for "Planned Service Changes" posters and brochures in stations with travel alternatives. Customers may also visit our website at www.mta.info and click on "Planned Service Changes" or sign up for free email and text message alerts. Our Travel Information line may be reached at 718-330-1234 daily, between 6 a.m. and 10 p.m. for assistance with travel plans.
