Weekend Busing Planned for Port Jervis Line To Allow Rock Slope Remediation and Track Work

For the next three weekends, MTA Metro-North Railroad will perform rock slope remediation and track work along the Port Jervis Line, which will require buses to substitute for most weekend trains.

The buses will operate between Port Jervis and Harriman stations beginning at 11 p.m. Fridays and continuing through 7 p.m. on Sundays. At Harriman, eastbound customers will board trains for the rest of the trip to Hoboken.

During these times, westbound customers will board a train at New York-Penn or Hoboken and transfer to a bus at Harriman for service to Port Jervis, Otisville, Middletown, Campbell Hall and Salisbury Mills-Cornwall stations.

This bus operation will be in place for three weekends: Friday, October 24 to Sunday, October 26; Friday, October 31 to Sunday, November 2; and Friday, November 7 to Sunday, November 9.

Important Note: Salisbury Mills-Cornwall buses will depart 10 minutes ahead of the train time. Buses at all other stations will depart at train times.

All westbound trains beginning with the 9:58 p.m. Friday departure from Hoboken (9:51 p.m. from New York-Penn Station) until the 4:04 p.m. Sunday departure from Hoboken (3:56 p.m. from New York-Penn Station) will have a bus connection at Harriman.

For these three weekends, normal service resumes on Sunday evening with the 6:13 p.m. departure from Hoboken (6:07 p.m. from New York-Penn Station).
