MTA NYCT Service Advisory: All Overnight Maintenance Work Including FASTRACK on the 6 Line Canceled Tonight Due to Inclement Weather

FASTRACK work scheduled on the 6 Line between Hunts Point Av and 125 St has been canceled for tonight, Wednesday, January 7, due to the overnight forecast of sub-freezing temperatures and windy weather conditions. The inclement weather will require activation of NYC Subways Cold Weather plan, which calls for the cancellation of overnight maintenance work, including FASTRACK, and the underground storage of subway trains on express tracks to protect the fleet, and allow crews to clear subway yards of snow and ice.

The underground storage of trains protects them from harsh conditions and ensures that they will be available and ready for morning rush hour service. This suspension also means that subway customers will not have to transfer for shuttle buses.
