MTA NYCT ADVISORY: Limited G Line Service This Weekend

As a result of last night's derailment north of the Hoyt-Schermerhorn Sts station, the following service changes will remain in effect through the weekend:

- There will be limited G service between Bedford-Nostrand Avs and Court Sq.
- Free transfers will be available from the Broadway G station to Lorimer St J M.
- There will be extremely limited G shuttle service between Bedford-Nostrand Avs and Hoyt-Schermerhorn Sts running in both directions on the Queens-bound track only. All riders should use the northbound (Queens-bound) platforms at Bedford-Nostrand Avs, Classon Av, Clinton-Washington Avs, and Fulton St. Riders should be encouraged to use the B38 bus on DeKalb Av (southbound) and Lafayette Av (northbound).
- No G service between Fulton St and Church Av. Take the F instead. Riders between Bergen St and Church Av who normally transfer between the G and A C at Hoyt-Schermerhorn Sts should transfer between the F and A C at Jay St-MetroTech instead. Riders between Bergen St and Church Av who normally take the G to stations from Fulton St north should transfer between the F and C or Lefferts-bound A at Jay St-MetroTech, and also transfer to/from the G shuttle train at Hoyt-Schermerhorn Sts. Customers using the G shuttle to transfer for the A C at Hoyt-Schermerhorn Sts will need to walk over to the northbound platform for A C service into Manhattan.

Customers should allow for additional travel time. Crews will be working throughout the weekend to inspect and make repairs to the derailment area with the goal of restoring normal G service in time for Monday morning's peak period.
