Southbound Trains Not Stopping at Melrose Station On Saturday, July 30, Through Sunday, July 31

Service Change Will Accommodate Harlem Line Improvements

After 11 p.m., on Friday, July 29 Grand Central Terminal-bound trains will not stop at Metro-North Railroad's Melrose station on the Harlem Line. Regularly scheduled train service will resume at 5 a.m. on Monday, August 1.

To Melrose, Saturday, July 30 – Sunday, July 31 Customers traveling from Westchester or Bronx stations to Melrose will transfer to buses at the Tremont station for continuing service to Melrose. Buses are scheduled to connect directly with arriving trains.

From Melrose, Saturday, July 30 – Sunday, July 31 Customers traveling from the Melrose station to Harlem-125th Street and Grand Central Terminal will take buses to the Tremont station for continuing train service. Buses will depart at the same time as regularly scheduled trains.

*Note: northbound service at the Melrose station will be unaffected by this service change.

This weekend's service change will help ensure the on-going reliability and safety of Harlem Line trains. Metro-North crews will be continuing their work installing new drainage pipe between the Tremont and Melrose station and building a new interlocking on the tracks that will allow trains to switch from one track to another.

For up-to-the-minute service info, customers can download the Metro-North Train Time app or sign up for Metro-North service alerts at www.mymtaalerts.com. They can also contact Metro-North Customer Service Center by calling 511, the New York State Travel Information Line, and saying: Metro-North Railroad. If you are deaf or hearing impaired, use your preferred relay service provider for the free 711 relay to reach Metro-North at 511.
