Buses Replace Trains on Montauk Branch between Speonk & Babylon over Weekend of Nov. 12-13 for Concrete Tie Project

Customers Should Allow Extra Time for Travel; Consult Revised Montauk Timetable

Bus service will replace trains on the Montauk Branch between Speonk and Babylon over the weekend of November 12 and November 13 as the Long Island Rail Road replaces concrete ties in the single track area between those stations.

Because of the busing program, customers should allow for extra travel time and carefully consult the revised Montauk Branch Timetable for November 12-13 before heading out. The single track between Speonk and Babylon will be taken out of service at 12:05 a.m. on Saturday, November 12 and returned to service by 1:46 a.m. on Monday, November 14, in plenty of time for the morning rush.

It is all part of the LIRR's annual State of Good Repair Program – the regularly scheduled replacement of track, switch and signal infrastructure being carried out at a cost of $60 million in 2016. Over the last decade, the LIRR has invested more than $573 million in such upgrades system wide.

Here is a rundown of key service changes on the Montauk and Babylon branches scheduled for the weekend of Saturday, November 12 & Sunday, November 13:

Montauk Branch

Westbound

- Customers traveling from stations Montauk through Speonk will change at Speonk for an express bus to Babylon where they can resume their trip by train to points west.
- Customers traveling from stations Speonk through Bay Shore will board buses at their home station for travel to Babylon where train service will resume to points west. Customers should expect up to 37 minutes of additional travel time

Eastbound

- Customers traveling to stations Bay Shore through Speonk will board buses at Babylon for travel to their destination.
- Customers traveling east of Speonk will board buses at Babylon to travel to Speonk where they can resume their trip east by train.
