LIRR

IMMEDIATE

Reduced Service on Huntington-Port Jeff & Hempstead Branch Over Weekend of November 12-13 for Scheduled Track Work

Some Babylon, Ronkonkoma and Oyster Bay Trains Impacted As Well

Scheduled track work on the Long Island Rail Road's Main Line between Queens Village and Mineola over the weekend of November 12 and November 13 will mean reduced service on the Huntington-Port Jefferson and Hempstead branches as well as few changes on the Babylon, Ronkonkoma and Oyster Bay branches.

The LIRR will take one of two main tracks out of service beginning at 12:30 a.m. on Saturday, November 12 so crews can resurface the track area at Queens Interlocking and carry out switch repair work at Nassau Interlocking. The track will be back in service by 4 a.m. on Monday, November 14 in time for the morning rush. It is all part of the LIRR's annual State of Good Repair Program – the regularly scheduled replacement of track, switch and signal infrastructure being carried out at a cost of $60 million in 2016. Over the last decade, the LIRR has invested more than $573 million in such upgrades system wide.

Here is a rundown of the more significant changes.

Westbound

Huntington/Port Jefferson Branch

- Service between Huntington and Penn Station is reduced from half-hourly to hourly with trains making all local stops from Huntington through New Hyde Park.
- Service between Port Jefferson and Huntington is reduced from 90 minutes intervals to 2 hour intervals with alternate connections west of Huntington

Hempstead Branch

- Buses will replace train service to Queens Village and Hollis stations until 8 p.m. on Saturday with customers detraining at Bellerose to board buses to travel to Queens Village and Hollis arriving 20 minutes later than usual.
- Some Hempstead trains will depart 10-21 minutes later than normal.
