LIRR Service Alert: Partial Service Expected to Resume at 7 a.m.

Switches and Tracks Re-Freeze Due to Overnight Icing

The Long Island Rail Road is advising customers that partial train service is now expected to resume at 7 a.m., two hours later than had been planned. As LIRR crews have been working throughout the night to restore service, switches and tracks that had been prepared for service have re-frozen due to unexpected low overnight temperatures. Service will be restored on the Port Washington, Oyster Bay, Port Jefferson, Ronkonkoma, Huntington, Babylon and Greenport Branches. Partial service will also be offered on the Montauk Branch as far as Speonk.
